

Brad S. Simma, CCIM

Vice President

Block Construction Services, LLC (BCS)

Brad joined BCS in June 2003 and has extensive experience handling all aspects of construction management, owner's representation, and development. He has led the growth of BCS from a small company managing $10 million dollars of construction volume in 2003 to $323 million in 2016.

Throughout his career, Brad has managed an array of projects including multi-site and single site development, shell building construction, building expansion, commercial development, multifamily development, build-to-suit, and tenant finish work. This depth stems from both the hard work that Brad is willing to put into a project and the knowledge that he has acquired working in the construction field.

Because of Brad's attention to detail, BCS has been able to expand into handling all aspects of move management, site selection, budget evaluation, contract administration, and project management. Brad brings his unique perspective, experience and pride in a job well done to every project he works on, resulting in high quality finished products for his clients.

Brad received his designation as a Certified Commercial Investment Member (CCIM) in 2010. He is a graduate of Pittsburg State University's School of Engineering and worked in the engineering field for three years prior to joining BCS. Brad resides in Shawnee, Kansas with his wife Lisa and three children—Jacob, Jared, and Kinley.
